

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

Nature Will Bow in Reverence And Enshrine Name of Mother

Tomorrow is "Mothers' Day." Nearly every church will have special services in which each part of the program will be a tribute to mothers, This observance has, within the last few years, become quite as much a national event as any of the red-letter days on the calendar. Sentiment, pure and simple, is the incentive which makes every man and woman, young and old, wear a white carnation on this day to give evidence of the fact that the corner of the heart especially reserved for mothers is tenanted by her image alone.

Never before, since the custom of observing this day has become a fixed one, has it meant so much to the young men and women as it will this year. Each day, mindful of the struggle that is before the country, the hearts of American mothers are being torn with the thoughts of the boys they may soon be sending to the firing line. The supreme sacrifices of war time will be made by American mothers, just as the European mothers have made them, in a spirit of sublime unselfishness and patriotism.
